

Wednesday, June 27, 2012

In this issue:

- New interactive skills-based volunteering activity
- Share the Conference Board survey on corporate community investment
- Volunteer Canada is moving
- Starbucks Canada and local volunteer centres hosting community conversations

---

New interactive skills-based volunteering activity

Volunteer Canada created a new online learning activity designed for volunteer managers and recruitment professionals. The interactive video allows viewers to ask potential volunteers questions about their skills and interests, and place them in a volunteer role according to the responses. The resource provides insights into the motivations of potential volunteers.

Click here to access the tool.

Share the Conference Board survey on corporate community investment

The Conference Board of Canada is conducting a survey to provide non-profit and community investment professionals with important data about corporate community investment programs in Canada. Please share the survey with your corporate contacts to allow for robust, accurate results.

Please access the Conference Board survey here.

Volunteer Canada is moving

Volunteer Canada is in the midst of a big move! As of June 27, our mailing address will be:

Volunteer Canada
@UnderOneRoof Properties
251 Bank Street, 5th Floor
Ottawa, ON K2P 1X2

Please note: Our email and phone service will be down on June 27 and 28 while we move. Any messages sent during that time won't be received until Friday, June 29, and since we'll be buried in boxes, please give us until Tuesday, July 3rd to get back to you.

Starbucks Canada and local volunteer centres hosting community conversations

As part of the Thriving Neighbourhoods campaign, Starbucks Canada is partnering with local volunteer centres across the country to host public conversations about community involvement. Information on sessions will be posted on community boards in local Starbucks stores.

For more about the Thriving Neighbourhoods campaign, visit <http://starbucks.ca/thrive>.